Focus on drug use in workplace

EMPLOYERS are being urged to focus on drug use in the workplace during Drug Action Week, which starts tomorrow.

Frontline Diagnostics managing director Michael White says people think of drug users as unemployed, but 70 per cent have jobs.

“Most drug-safe programs have been implemented in the safety-sensitive industries, such as transport, mining and engineering, but it’s not just safety that suffers when drugs are mixed with work – it is also productivity and reputation,” Mr White says.
